STAMPING OUT DISEASE.

The Board of Health Shows That the Good Work Is Progressing.

There was a joint meeting yesterday of the board of health and the special council committee consisting of Messrs. Wheeler, Bechel, Kaspar, Olsen and Osthoff, for the purpose of ascertaining what further steps are necessary to stamp out contagious dis-

It seemed, however, that a quorum would never be obtained.

City Physician Gapen worked the telephone until not only threatened with paralysis of the arm but also of the entire system. The first results of his heroic efforts were to learn that Mayor Cushing, chairman of the board of health, was sick and unable to leave his room and that Councilman Bechel was "very sick and abed."

Finally, however, when those present had decided to give it up and wait until tomorrow, Councilman Osthoff appeared and completed the querum of the council committee, and the meeting proceeded with Mr. Wheeler in the chair and Messrs, Gapen, Dennis and Seavey present of the board and Olsen, Osthoff and Wheeler of the committee.

Dr. Gapen announced that contagious diseases were not found in scarcely any other part of the city but that bounded by Tenth street on the cast and Twenty fourth street on the west. He read the ratio of diseases during October previously given in The Bre. He had distributed between 20,000 and 30,000 of the circulars containing rules governing the care of contagious diseases, and was confident that this printed matter had done a great deal of good. It was his idea that control of the contagion had been secured to an extent warranting the discharge of three of the seven sanitary inspectors now engaged. sanitary inspectors now engaged.

Mr. Wheeler thought that three inspectors would be sufficient to attend to the business. Chief Seavey thought it would be well to ask the mayor to appoint two inspectors for the winter in addition to Health Officer Pettit. Dr. Gapen remarked that $2,000 of the appropriation for health purposes for this year remained, and favored the commencement of a metropolitan system of sanitary inspection at

Mr. Wheeler urged economy. He said that with the legislature that had been chosen he did not think that a single thing would be done in the way of helpful legislation and without such assistance the council could do nothing. The sidewalk plumbing and done in the way of helpful legislation and without such assistance the council could do nothing. The sidewalk, plumbing and mayor's departmental funds had run short and he didn't know where any more health money was coming from.

Mr. Olsen asked that Dr. Gapen give the board his idea as to what the inauguration of a metropolitan system would mean.

"First," said the doctor, "I would have a board of health office established; a place where people could come and enter complaints and depend upon finding officials there to attend to the complaints and calls for inspection."

He wanted a regular system of reports, hours of duty for inspectors and a hundred other very necessary arrangements.

Councilman Chaffee came in at this point and urged that three more inspectors in connection with Mr. Pettit be retained, and "this matter of contagious disease followed up, stamped out, and not allowed to regain the start it had lost by the vigilance of a reasonable number of inspectors."

Mr. Chaffee's idea prevailed, the meeting endorsed it fully notwithstanding its adoption was accompanied with a small amount of mild wrangling.

Dr. Gapea announced that fifty-three cases of typhold fever had been reported to him

Dr. Gupen announced that fifty-three cases of typhoid fever had been reported to him during October, and that there were others at the various hospitals that he had been informed would be heard from later. He wanted to know whether he should continue that trailers of well water which he would wanted to know whether he should continue the analysis of well water which he considered to be the cause of typhoid fever.

Mr. Wheeler said: "Yes, most certainly—and what's more I don't believe there is a well anywhere on all the low land of the city which is not unfit for drinking purposes."

The other gentlemen present expressed themselves of the same opinion, and the doctor will have the analyses made.

The adjournment of the joint meeting was then taken to four weeks from today, and of the board of health to next Monday 10:30

Miss Gertrade Ellis, who teaches the eighth grade, has been elected county superintendent of schools of Mower county, Minn., and will depart for Austin, the county seat, as soon as her resignation is accepted. Miss Ellis has taught in the Omaha school for some time, but at the recent democratic county convention of Mower county she received the nomination, and subsequently was endorsed by the alli-ance. MUST BE NON-PARTISAN.

Citizens Protest Against a Partisan Anti-Prohibition Jubilee.

Leading anti-prohibitionists are protesting against the movement which seeks to merge their proposed jubilee with the democratic ratification meeting announced for this evening. The latter is purely a democratic affair and in no sense non-partisan as the anti-prohibition demonstration must necessarily be.

Mr. Rosewater, in speaking of the matter yesterday, was very decidedly opposed to anti-prohibition republicans participating as a body in the democratic blowout this even-a body in the democratic blowout this evening. He said:

"Those who may want to jubilate over the election of Mr. Boyd are of course those of his political faith chiefly. No republican can consistently or conscientiously take any part in the parade Tuesday evening. The enthusiasm of our anti-prohibition friends can safely be posited for a few days and then the thusiasm of our anti-prohibition friends can safely be bottled for a few days and then the adherents of every party and creed can join hands for a grand non-partisan joilification over the defeat of prohibition. Democrats, republicans and independents alike should be asked to participate, but it is imperative that the spirit of partisanship be smothered in such a demonstration on the part of Omaha. No political party or candidate should be glorified or even mentioned in the anti-prohibition demonstration. It should the anti-prohibition demonstration. It should be done solely for Omaha and by Omaha as "If it was to be a non-partisan anti-prohibition affair, I should be glad to take part, but I cannot assist in a democratic blowout. In the first place I have received no formal invitation, but saw in the papers that I was to be one of the speakers. In the second place, if I was there and it was a democratic celebration, I should feel called upon to talk republicanism, and that wouldn't please the other fellows, so I shall stay away. If I spoke at an affair wouldn't please the other fellows, so I shall stay away. If I spoke at an affair of that kind, they would say that I had not been interested in the success of the republican ticket and was ready to celebrate its defeat. I understand that Mr. Rosewater feels the same as I do in this matter, and will not participate. I have notified the republican county central committee of the stand I have taken."

Other prominent republicans called at THE BEE office yesterday and expressed themselves as also being opposed to participating in a democratic jollification.

It seems that the celebration tonight will be anti-prohibition in its nature only so far as democratic anti-prohibitionists are concerned. It is to be a straight out-and-out democratic affair, and the republicans will not participate in the blowout, aithough rejoicing as much as do the democrats over the defeat of the prohibitory amendment.
